Rules of ART CAMP SUMMER 2007

1. Listen and follow Mrs. Carolyn's instructions.
2. Use all art tools and materials as Mrs. Carolyn instructs is the proper and safe way to handle them.
3. Clean up after yourself.
4. Respect other people, respect other people's work and respect other people's property, including Mrs. Carolyn's property.
5. Have fun being the best artist you can be!

PARENTS, please have your child dress in work clothes, ready to be the best artist they can be! They will be getting messy. They will be getting dirty. Please allow them to enjoy the experience without having to worry about messing up their good clothes by having them dress accordingly. This is very important. I will not be held responsible for any messed up clothing. I will instruct the students how to use the tools and materials properly but getting messy cannot be avoided in the art room. You are welcome to provide an extra large shirt or smock to go over their clothes to make it easier to clean. However, I still ask that ALL of their clothes they are wearing during the week of Art Camp be old clothes that won't be ruined if paint, clay, or charcoal gets on them. They also need to wear shoes that are appropriate for the art room.

Due to the relatively short duration of the daily sessions, snacks will not be provided. It is my preference that this short time we meet daily be used for art; however, if your child needs a snack during this period, they may bring a simple snack (i.e. chips, cookies, veggies, soda, juice box, etc.) to eat outside my studio (or in my kitchen in case of inclement weather). However, they will need to be able to prepare the snack themselves, after thoroughly washing their hands. I will not be able to divert my attention away from other students to assist your child with their snack. Food or drink is not allowed in the studio because it is unsafe to eat around art materials. They are welcome to get water at anytime they need a drink, but they must keep it out of the studio.

Both of these rules concerning dress and food are for your child's safety and well-being in the art room so that they might have the best art experience possible during their time in Art Camp. Please make sure that your child understands each of them. Thank you for your assistance in keeping your child in a fun and safe art environment.

Return this copy signed to Mrs. Carolyn. Use separate copies for each child.
